Gene,

The number below is sufficient for now.

We understand how the system works and the benefits of the system. Once again the export proved to be very timely as this "kick started" the market rise and the entire egg industry benefitted. It is too bad that we do not get better participation from the rest of the industry.

Thank you for the good job done.

Wayne,

I've chosen to respond rather than Phyllis doing so. The cost is big so sit down before you see this and fall over.

Keep in mind that the Midwest Large quote rose by 40 cents per dozen during the period of this export so your companies made a lot of money on this export. Try to remember that as you calculate your costs to participate

We had real difficulty buying eggs for this export and in fact as we got closer to the completion we were begging producers to sell us eggs. I hope this meant that we really didn't have a great volume of surplus eggs when we took this export.

Linda Reickard keeps track of all the sales and purchases and is at this point calculating the losses. As of yesterday, she and I were running through the numbers and it appears the loss is going to be about 46.3 cents per dozen. So you could use this figure times the number of dozen your companies were responsible for to determine what your costs will be.

Keep

in mind my numbers here are not yet finalized but this is a good estimate.

Gene
